THE NEW GOLDEN AGE OF SEA TRAVEL

WELCOME

Dear Cunarder,

As a new face here at Cunard, I'm delighted to introduce myself and welcome you to another edition of your favourite newsletter.

Graduating from Southampton University in 1984 with a 1st Class BSc Joint Honours degree in Economics and Business Economics, I have enjoyed a rewarding career in the travel and hospitality world. Working with Thomson Tour Operations on their specialist brands, Forte Hotels and IVN Communications (who produced and distributed special interest TV documentaries). I have held various Marketing, Commercial and General Management positions.

Since then, cruise lines have played an increasingly significant part in my career. As Managing Director of Swan Hellenic Cruises and UK Director for Princess Cruises, I am now excited and proud to be at the helm of the prestigious Cunard Line.

Renowned for its link to the glamorous golden age of travel and proudly boasting 'The Most Famous Ocean Liners in the World™', I am committed to ensuring that the legendary Cunard name continues to exceed all expectations. Cunard has already pioneered the way forward with the most ambitious engineering feat of the century - Queen Mary 2. It is now my responsibility to ensure that Cunard's traditional values, impeccable service levels, unsurpassable luxury and the best of British standards at sea are maintained, whilst continuing to spearhead the future of cruising today.

I'm looking forward to being part of Cunard's exciting future and hope to be able to share this with you as our valued Cunard World Club Members.

Fireboats, fanfare & a flotilla of admirers - oh, what a swell party this was!

'Isn't she lovely?' they sang at a special ceremony to mark the handing over of the Boston Cup from Queen Elizabeth 2 to Queen Mary 2 on 1st May 2004. Cue fireboats, cue fanfare. And so a new era dawns and a new Cunard flagship assumes the historic transatlantic role.

Isn't she lovely, indeed! But which of these two great liners could they possibly mean? One era ended and another began in Southampton earlier this year when Queen Elizabeth 2 passed her flagship status and the transatlantic mantle to the magnificent Queen Mary 2.

Deputy PM John Prescott – a former Cunard steward – was among the very special guests who watched Captain McNaught deliver the Boston Cup into the safe hands of Commodore Warwick at a gala ceremony. The cup was first given to Samuel Cunard by grateful Boston citizens in recognition of his early transatlantic mail service.

John Prescott remembered his Cunard days with pride and passion.

And what a swell party it was! John Prescott remembered his Cunard days with pride and passion. Sir Jimmy Saville recalled his delight at cruising with us. And Cunard President Pamela Conover was presented with a commemorative painting of both great ships.

COME SHARE THE FUTURE WITH US

To celebrate the occasion, guests on Queen Elizabeth 2 were duly invited aboard Queen Mary 2 for a mouthwatering lunch at the stylish Todd English Restaurant. Later, to the emotional strains of 'Isn't She Lovely?', Queen Elizabeth 2 left her sister ship behind in the mist and struck out for new horizons escorted by fireboats, helicopters and a flotilla of well-wishers.

Captain McNaught hands over the Boston Cup to Commodore Warwick

It was a fitting climax to a story which began in New York a week earlier amid pomp and pageantry. Following a glittering celebrity fundraising event in aid of charities and good causes, the two great Cunard Queens slipped their moorings and began the historic tandem transatlantic crossing that brought them side by side into their home port of Southampton.

And so another milestone in Cunard's amazing story has been reached. For The Most Famous Ocean Liners in the World™, a golden future begins.

Queen Elizabeth 2 will be the fleet flagship at the spectacular Trafalgar 200 event

A dramatic enactment of a Napoleonic sea battle is just one of the sensational highlights of a festival marking Trafalgar's 200th anniversary. And you can be there when you join the most famous ship in the world on a Gallic Getaway.

Heritage-lovers – make it a date! Join Queen Elizabeth 2 for A Gallic Getaway to St Peter Port and Le Havre and be a part of living history.

Brief it may be – but this is a cruise you won't forget in a hurry. The most famous ship in the world will be the heart and soul of the Trafalgar 200 celebrations on 28th June 2005 at Spithead in the Solent to mark the bicentenary of Nelson's finest hour. The fireworks alone, we're assured, should safely make history!

Ships from more than 30 of the world's navies will participate in the International Fleet Review in the presence of First Sea Lord Admiral Sir Alan West. Come and watch a 600 year old tradition transformed into a modern celebration of international maritime friendship and co-operation.

Let the battle commence!

More than just a thrilling naval occasion, the Fleet Review fills the sea with many of the world's finest tall ships plus thousands of other vessels including racing yachts, fishing craft, private boats and merchant ships of every size and flag. It's enough to make the waters foam while, overhead, the skies come alive with flypasts.

Dusk sees the final preparations for battle. Son et lumière. Blazing broadsides. Gun smoke, war cries, pyrotechnics and music. It's as close to a Napoleonic sea battle as you'd wish to come. Thank heavens for Queen Elizabeth 2 and her creature comforts!

And as night falls memorably on the Solent and a floodlit fleet, the party culminates in one of the biggest firework displays ever staged in the UK. Another 'finest hour' in the making? We do believe Nelson would take his hat off.

READER'S CORNER

We love receiving your poems, stories, tributes and anecdotes on a nautical theme – and there's a sparkling magnum of champagne for the winning entry published in each edition of The Cunarder.

For our next issue, we'd particularly welcome any special memories, funny stories or interesting experiences you've had on a transatlantic voyage.

Our thanks and heartfelt sympathies to Mrs Cordingley and family on the passing of Mr Cordingley, who sent us these photographs shortly before he died.

Double Take!

We couldn't resist sharing with you these two photos of the late Bernard Cordingley on board Queen Mary in 1954 and again on Queen Mary 2 in 2004.

Bernard wrote: "In 1954, aged 21, I was employed by Thomas Cook & Son Ltd and was training as a Continental & Overseas booking clerk. Included in my course was an educational visit to, and lunch on board, the old Queen Mary.

With my fellow students I took the opportunity of being photographed framed by one of the ship's lifebelts. Imagine my pleasure at being snapped again, in retirement almost exactly half a century later, with one of the new Queen's belts ..."

STEPHEN PAYNE - AWARD FOR QUEEN MARY 2 DESIGNER

Queen Mary 2's designer has now been awarded an O.B.E. in recognition of his phenomenal maritime achievement with the design of Queen Mary 2.

"As the naval architect for the initial design of Queen Mary 2, my most important challenge was to design a true transatlantic liner, not a cruise ship disguised as a liner. The transatlantic service demands a ship with classical fine hull lines. By synthesising such a hull with modern podded propulsion systems and incorporating lessons learnt from past and present day cruise ships, the new Queen Mary 2 evolved on my drawing board over a period of two years."
